Dear Friend:

This past summer I was intouch with an individual who is in a position to market color duplicates of the Nix and Muchmore movie films of the JFK assassination. At the time, the initial investment cost of some three hundred dollars for photo lab costs seemed prohibitive. However, if several persons could contribute to the financial needs necessary to produce the films, I feel that the purchasing price for a copy could be lowered to a reasonable amount.

Twelve people investing twenty-five dollars each would be enough to get things started and provide you with a reel containing both films. If you and or your associates would be interested please let me know and advise me as to how many orders I might expect.

Sincerely,

Emory L Brown, Jr.
